This square is called the “félibrée” square. The « felibrée » is an important Occitan festival organised in Périgord since 1903. Each year, a village hosts the festival and the inhabitants decorate it with paper flowers.

Along this road, there is a little stream called le Mareuillais.

The hydraulic energy* from the stream was used to run machines.

It is an old spinning mill built in 1830.

In this factory, the machinery is driven by the power of the water! Sadly a fire broke out and stopped all activities in 1833!

Thanks to the cotton produced here,

3 factories made clothes.

This is a funerary monument to remember that during the Second World War, on 13 June 1944, the nazis organised a raid in order to put an end to a group of resistance members from Mareuil called « Mimi ». Among the three answers below, find the right one.

- ① Two nights before the arrival of the Nazis, the Resistance fighters took away and exchanged the sign posts so that they got lost.
- ② In the morning, all the inhabitants released their cattle on the road to stop the nazis from passing.
- ③ The inhabitants had cut down some big trees to block the road. Obligated to go back, the Nazis were caught in an ambush.

11 Let's continue in the footsteps of the Resistance. Retrace your steps and take the rue du Repaire in the direction of the village.

The "repaire" is a fortified house at 2 km from the village : it was the spot of the resistance in Mareuil ! To get to the repaire without being seen, they had to take this secret passage.

To discover it, walk up to the beginning of the road des Chenevières and find the passage : it will take you to step n°12.

12 Now that you are on your way to the passage du repaire, look up and you will see the coat of arms of the village and its motto « Ré qué diou » that means « Only god ».

To go further...

To do here or at home.

The coat of arms of Mareuil is described as:
